

"Well, I did it!" says Milt. "I found the bracelet. It was hot today, but I had good light to see, and I could look through all the things down there. I went a long way, but I did not stop looking. I had to pull it away from another fish. He wanted to use it to jump through. Hold on to it and don't let it fall back into the water," adds Milt.

"Oh, thank you, Milt! Mother will love you as we do," say the children.
